

One hundred and fifty friends and relatives gathered at the Congregational church, North Craftsbury, Monday, October 27, to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Moses Root. All the neighboring towns were represented, while several came from New Hampshire and Massachusetts. The honored couple, attended by near friends walked up the aisle while the wedding march was played by Mrs. Anna Cole, and after simple but appropriate ceremonies conducted by Rev. C. H. Morse, Rev. J. C. Taylor and Rev. R. C. Moodie, received congratulations beneath a golden bell suspended from a beautiful arch of evergreens. Deacon and Mrs. Williams of Ringe, New Hampshire, assisted in receiving. Letters were read from relatives and friends in Massachusetts, Connecticut, Missouri and California. A poem composed for the occasion by J. C. Colburn was read by A. C. Cole. A number of valuable presents were made, including a gold-headed cane from Mr. George Howard of Craftsbury, fifty dollars in gold from friends in Craftsbury, mantle clock from Mrs. Warren Root of Burlington, a beautiful oil painting from Miss Eliza Root of Craftsbury, and cash in different amounts bringing the total up to one hundred and sixty-five dollars. After a dinner served in the vestry, Dr. Charles Dugan as toastmaster called upon Rev. Mr. Taylor of East Craftsbury who responded to the toast "Deacon Root in the church and community." Mr. Dorman Bridgman of Hardwick brought congratulations from the surrounding towns; Mr. Charles Bailey of East Hardwick, Mrs. James Cameron of West Glover, Mr. Royal Goodwin and Mr. George Merrill of Craftsbury made appropriate remarks. Deacon Root responded in his usual happy way, thanking the people for their kindness. Deacon Root was born in Montague, Mass., in 1821, where he lived until seventeen years of age. Coming to Craftsbury in 1837 he moved on to the farm where he still lives. He married Miss Mary Blanchard of Greensboro, Vt., who has been his faithful, loving wife for fifty years. Eight children have blessed the union, five sons and three daughters. They have twenty grandchildren. No death has as yet occurred among either children or grandchildren. Five of the children who live in California were unable to be present at the wedding. Three, Deacon Charles Root and Miss Eliza Root who live on the old farm, and Mrs. Royal Moodie of West Tisbury, Mass., were in attendance.—A. C. C.

Spring hath its south wind and the mellowing earth,
The blooming bough and flutter of the leaves,
And summer hath its labor and its mirth,
But Autumn binds the sheaves.
Dawn brings the gladness of awaking thought,
The quickened heart throb, and the will to roam.
Noon brings us nearer to the thing we sought,
But twilight brings us home.
Even so with you, dear friends, this time is best.
Good was the past, in which ye twain did prove
Sorrow that leads to gladness, toil to rest,
And love begetting love.
Yet this is better, when ye sit to view
Your own past lives, made beautiful by care,
While children's children at your feet renew
The youth ye once did share.
Lo, how the love ye planted long ago
Hath sprung and grown around you without end,
Love of the kinsmen, love of those ye knew,
Of child and wife and friend.
And may the coming years with rich increase
Bloom round you in the paths your feet have trod,
Until you waken in the radiant peace
Of the harvest time of God.
